Dazaifu souvenirs

Dazaifu specialty Umegae-mochi

Umegae-mochi is a toasted rice cake with sweet red bean paste inside. It is stamped with the plum blossom pattern that is the symbol of Dazaifu Tenmangu Shrine.

The origin of Umegae-mochi
Sugawara Michizane was exiled from Kyoto and spending a miserable life in Dazaifu.

Out of pity for his circumstance, an old lady who lived nearby gave him a rice cake decorated with a plum tree twig to cheer him up.

Dazaifu folk craft Kiuso

Kiuso is a wooden hand-carved craft. It represents that a bullfinch perches on a tree and spread its wings. People believe that bullfinch is a messenger of a god and bring good luck.

Plastic folder

Multipurpose antibacterial plastic folder. It is only available at Dazaifu City Tourist Information Center. (sizes: 140 x 220mm)

Sugawara Michizane was exiled from Kyoto to Dazaifu and lived here for 2 years until he passed away.	14 Karukaya Checkpoint Ruins The gateway of Dazaifu. It was said to have been a barrier or a checkpoint.	12 Dazaifu Fureai Museum It is a multipurpose facility that introduces the history and culture of Dazaifu.	10 Onojo Fortress Ruins It was built on top of Mt.Shioji in 665. It consisted of a number of buildings surrounded by a soil circumference. Only the embankment and the foundation stones of about 70 storehouses remain today. National Historic Site	9 Mizuki Fortress Ruins Mizuki is a fortress built in 664 against a possible invasion from Tang(China) and Silla(Korea). It is 1.2km long, 80m wide and 10m high. National Historic Site	8 Sakamoto Hachimangu Shrine The shrine is attracting attention as a place related with the Imperial era name Reiwa. Reiwa comes from the preface to Manyoshu which is the Japanese oldest poetry anthology. The preface was written by Otomomo Tabito in plum viewing party in his residence. His residence is said to have been around the shrine.	7 Dazaifu Exhibition Hall It displays items related to ancient Dazaifu, including excavated artifacts, drainage ditch, model of Dazaifu government office. New era name "Reiwa" related diorama, Feast of Plum Blossoms(artist:Nobuaki Yamamura) is also displayed.	6 Dazaifu Government Office Ruins Ancient Dazaifu Government Office was the center of politics and culture in Kyushu and also at frontier for Japanese diplomacy and defense. All that remains is the huge foundation stones of the original building. National Historic Site	5 Kaidanin Temple It was built within the Kanzeonji Temple complex as a place for delivering the doctrines of Buddhism and the official ordination hall in Kyushu. The other two were Todaiji temple in Nara and Shimotsuke Yakushiji temple in Tochigi. National Historic Site	4 Kanzeonji Temple It was built in memory of the late Empress Saimei by his son, Emperor Tenji. A number of Buddhist statues and bronze Bonsho bell, which is the oldest one in Japan and the national treasure, survives to tell us of its history. [Bonsho bell is currently exhibited at Kyushu National Museum.] National Historic Site	3 Homangu kamado Shrine Kamado Shrine stands on a sacred mountain, Mt. Homan. It is said that it was built the northeasterly direction from Dazaifu to protect Dazaifu government office against the evil spirits. The shrine is famous for bringing good relationship and marriage.	2 Kyushu National Museum It's the 4th National Museum after Tokyo, Kyoto and Nara. It is based on the concept of "Understanding Japanese culture from the Asian perspective".	1 Dazaifu Tenmangu Shrine Sugawara Michizane(845-903) was a court noble, politician and scholar. He was demoted to Dazaifu because of the slander and political chicanery of his rival and died two years later.
